A S ONE who views from out an open door the smiling landscape
 Near at hand—cottage and lake and sun-flecked evergreen—
 While wider vistas of the distant shore beyond the stream
 Gleam softly in the shining panes—a mirrored scene—
 So, at this Christmastide, through Memory's open door we gaze
 On friendly faces, gatherings gay, on shadowed hours and bright,
 The while those lovelit faces beaming from the Distant Shore,
 Mirrored upon our hearts, touch every scene with golden light,—
 What will the New Year's opening door for our delight disclose?
 Fair skies, we trust, blossoms and luscious fruits and birdsong sweet,
 True friendship, happy helpfulness, peace dwelling deep within
 The nations' hearts, our land fair footstool for the Master's feet.

May love and beauty make us glad and strong
 To help the world to learn the Angels' Song!

With all Honest Good Wishes

New Year

From

Edward Moore Burwash

“ Let us now go even unto Bethlehem ”

Christmas again! again the birth supernal
At Bethlehem that far historic day
Renews the challenge of the life eternal
Himself the life, himself the truth, the way.

O guiding star! high o'er life's barren mountains,
Shine sweetly clear on men of kindly will
Lead us again unto the cleansing fountains
Where our forgiving God is waiting still.

O angel choir!—your In Excelsis ringing
Above the lowly toilers of the earth—
Lead us that our too long discordant singing
May soothe their sorrows and assuage their dearth.
